PROJECTS

VEHICLE ACCIDENT ALERT SYSTEM (Prototype Project)

Mentor: Prof. Vaishali Katkar | Team Size: 4

Designed and developed an intelligent accident detection and alert system using Arduino Nano, ADXL345 accelerometer, GPS (NEO-6M), and GSM (SIM800L) modules to automatically detect collisions and send real-time location alerts to emergency contacts. Integrated Wi-Fi (ESP8266) for contact management and manual emergency/cancel buttons to prevent false alarms. The system ensures faster emergency response by providing instant accident notifications with GPS coordinates, enhancing passenger safety in vehicles. Focused on cost-effective design, real-time communication, and reliability, with successful testing of impact sensitivity, location accuracy, and transmission speed.

An Intelligent Vehicle Detection and Alert System for Road Safety in Hilly Areas

Mentor: Dr. Kalpana Pawase | Team Size: 4

This invention is related to the field of automated road safety systems, particularly in hilly and accident-prone terrains, using sensor-based detection and signaling mechanisms. More specifically, it is a system to detect approaching vehicles and alert other road users via visual and audio signals to prevent accidents.

POSITIONS OF RESPONSIBILITY

World Rotaract Week Chairperson - Rotaract Club, MIT Academy of Engineering, Alandi, Pune.

As the World Rotaract Week Chairperson, I successfully led and coordinated the week-long celebration dedicated to promoting the values of Rotaract, youth leadership, and community service. I was responsible for planning, organizing, and executing multiple social impact events, ensuring maximum participation and engagement across members and the community.

My role involved strategic event management, team leadership, sponsorship coordination, and public relations, working closely with Rotaract and Rotary members to align all activities with global Rotaract goals. I spearheaded initiatives that fostered volunteerism, leadership development, and fellowship, while enhancing the visibility and reputation of our club within the district.
